Liquidation Sale.

MANY WONDER

why we are so busy in this season of complaint ..... . Values tell the story...... How 'tis possible for us to give such values is wender, too.....Of the values none can doubt, and they are legitimate—the goods are bought for each-they are our own-we have the right to sell them as we please...... If we please to sell at half the cost 'tis no one's business but our own.

THIS WEEK WILL SEE the greatest values of this great sale.

SELL AND REPENT.

We have been asked the reason of adoption of this eld motto—to put it shortly—'tis better sell and re-pent, than keep, repenting that you did not sell .... In these quick moving days prices of Dry Goods oftener decline than rise -- old stock never rises -- better sell while new at prices easily obtainable, than later on try to get the price you want when goods have lost their fashion, for even if you sell at price you want you sell. at once both goods and customer and may expect never to see either goods or customer again ... therefore sel and repent—if price be low and value good you have a customer that you may expect to see again. All is not loss,

Therefore these prices in Courage Half the Battle. Buy When Others Want to Sell.

Since it has been known that we would buy when all around are frightened—discouraged by stocks on hand and backwardness of trade—we've had no end of appor tunities such as we never had before.....That for cash we always buy, and always have the cash wherewith to bny, is as well known to wholesale dealers in all branche of the trade as the values that we give are known to our customers... They who have goods to sell in quantities first come to us, because we have both the courage and the cash wherewith to buy—we've yet to see the quan-tity to scare us if but merchandise and price be right .This week to the "Meyer Jonasson" stock we add two great purchases—the closing of two great stocks, but by special request forbear to mention names.... Notwithstanding backwardness of trade, our sales far exceed any we've ever known...... If you see the values that we offer you'll know the reason why.
